SCHLOSS VOLLRADS

THE VITICULTURAL HISTORY of Schloss Vollrads is inseparably linked with the name Greiffenclau. It is the family with the longest tradition of wine growing – not only in the Rheingau, but probably in the world. A document in the Mainz City Archives shows that on November 18, 1211, Ruthard Embricho and Heinrich Greiffenclau sold wines from their hometown, Winkel, to the St. Victor monastery in Mainz.

EVEN IN THE MIDDLE AGES Vollrads wines were valuable commodity exported to towns along the Lower Rhine and in northern Germany. Then, as now, wines were cultivated on the south facing slopes along the Rhine River that still fan out in a semicircle around the Vollrads Palace.

TODAY, THIS LONG TRADITION is enhanced by the most modern technical equipment and meticulous care in the cellars.

THE ESTATE'S 125 ACRES of vineyards are planted exclusively with Riesling grapes, the finest white grape grown in Germany. In order to achieve the highest quality of wine possible, Schloss Vollrads cultivates Riesling grapes; controls yield through selective pruning; practices ecologically-oriented vineyard maintenance; harvest its grapes late and selectively, by hand and allows its wines to develop with a little interference as possible. Our cellar master strives to retain all the grapes' natural aromas, minerals, and acids during vinification and produce fruity Riesling wines that reflect their varietal character.

SCHLOSS VOLLRADS DEVOTES SPECIAL ATTENTION to producing dry and off-dry Riesling wines that are excellent with good food. The team, headed up by Dr. Rowald Hepp, is particularly proud to have received the Award of Honor conferred by the State of Hesse and several other awards e.g. Estates Director of the year, shooting star of the year.
